STEREOTYPING

At the Herald Office

Housebuilding Is An Art.

That has been practiced among men for a considerable time, and one which we should think might fairly be expected to have reached a reasonable degree of perfection. And so it has. Yet who is there that has not known of houses which have taken fire from "defective flues"? This leads us to emphasize again the importance to you of the good mason who is a so the honest man. We are not altogether disinterested in this. Good chimneys, good flues and stove men, are good friends. We wish you, in your interest as well as our own, to have a Jewel Range and although the Jewel Range is superior to other ranges, it is not superior to physical laws, and needs to be he ped by a good draught, such as is secured only by a properly built chimney. Therefore, we say, make sure of the good mason !

And also, make sure of the Jewel Range. It will last you longer and serve you better than any other range that is made. As years go by it will cost you least for repairs. It ought to be in every house in Salt Lake —in Utah—in this whole country. Wherever there is a house without it, that house would be better with it.
